These instruments may be subject to contingent write-down or contingent conversion to equity on the occurrence of trigger event(s). The Sub-Fund will not enter into any financial futures contracts or financial options contracts.

What are the key risks?

Investment involves risks. Please refer to the Explanatory Memorandum for details including the risk factors.

Investment in this Sub-Fund is different from placing deposits with a bank or deposit-taking company. Investment in this Sub-Fund is not protected by the Deposit Protection Scheme.

- 1. Investment risk — The Sub-Fund's investment portfolio may fall in value due to any of the key risk factors and therefore your investment in the Sub-Fund may suffer losses. There is no guarantee of the repayment of principal.
- 2. Interest rate risk — Interest rate movements have an impact on the valuation of debt securities and hence, the NAV of a Sub-Fund. In general, the prices of debt securities rise when interest rates fall, whilst their prices fall when interest rates rise.
- 3. Credit/counterparty risk — The Sub-Fund may be exposed to credit and counterparty risk of issuers of the debt securities that the Sub-Fund may invest in. If the issuer of debt securities in which the Sub-Fund invested in defaults or suffers insolvency, such securities may become worthless and the performance of the Sub-Fund will be adversely affected. Further, investments in debt securities which involve a counterparty are subject to the credit risk or default risk of the counterparty. This may adversely affect the NAV of the Sub-Fund and investors may as a result suffer loss.
- 4. Risk associated with debt securities rated below investment grade or unrated — The Sub-Fund may invest in debt securities rated below investment grade (as determined by credit rating agency(ies) approved by the MPF Authority) or unrated, as may be allowed under the MPF Regulation. Such securities are generally subject to lower liquidity, higher volatility and greater risk of loss of principal and interest than high-rated debt securities, which may adversely impact the returns of the securities and in turn the net asset value of the Sub-Fund.

What are the key risks? (con't)

5. Risks of investing in instruments with loss-absorption features — Debt instruments with loss-absorption features are subject to greater risks when compared to traditional debt instruments as such instruments are typically subject to the risk of being written down or converted to ordinary shares upon the occurrence of a pre-defined trigger event(s) (e.g. when the issuer is near or at the point of non-viability or when the issuer’s capital ratio falls to a specified level), which are likely to be outside of the issuer’s control. Such trigger events are complex and difficult to predict and may result in a significant or total reduction in the value of such instruments.

In the event of the activation of a trigger, there may be potential price contagion and volatility to the entire asset class. Debt instruments with loss-absorption features may also be exposed to liquidity, valuation and sector concentration risk.

The Sub-Fund may invest in contingent convertible debt securities, commonly known as CoCos, which are highly complex and are of high risk. Upon the occurrence of the trigger event, CoCos may be converted into shares of the issuer (potentially at a discounted price), or may be subject to the permanent write-down to zero. Coupon payments on CoCos are discretionary and may be cancelled by the issuer at any point, for any reason, and for any length of time.

The Sub-Fund may invest in senior non-preferred debts. While these instruments are generally senior to subordinated debts, they may be subject to write-down upon the occurrence of a trigger event and will no longer fall under the creditor ranking hierarchy of the issuer. This may result in total loss of principal invested.

How has the Sub-Fund performed?

Past performance information is not indicative of future performance. Investors may not get back the full amount invested.

The computation basis of the performance is based on the calendar year end, NAV-to-NAV, with dividend reinvested.

These figures show by how much the Retail Class Units increased or decreased in value during the calendar year being shown. Performance data has been calculated in HKD including ongoing charges and excluding subscription fee and redemption fee you might have to pay.

Where no past performance is shown there was insufficient data available in that year to provide performance.
